

Lynn A. Voorhees Granted the CAI-NJ's Distinguished Service Award

NORTH BRUNSWICK, NJ, (March 30, 2010) - The New Jersey Chapter of the Community Associations Institute (CAI-NJ) recently awarded Lynn Voorhees, RCS, RS of Kipcon Inc. with the Jerome M. Fein Distinguished Service Award in recognition of her outstanding and dedicated service to the organization. This prestigious honor was presented at the CAI-NJ's Annual Chapter Awards Dinner on Thursday, March 4th at the Crystal Point Yacht Club.

Rewarded to one person a year, the Distinguished Service Award honors all the work Jerome M. Fein did for the CAI as the treasurer of the National Research Foundation and the Commissioner of the National Certification for Community Association Managers.

Lynn Voorhees, RCS, RS is the Director of Business Development for Kipcon Inc., an engineering consulting firm which provides engineering services to community associations throughout the United States. She is a licensed New Jersey Building Inspector, Residential and Commercial Specialist and a National Community Association Institute Reserve Specialist. Since 1996, Lynn has served as a chair and member of numerous committees for the New Jersey Chapter of the Community Associations Institute, including the Public Relations and the Conference and Expo Committees. She is currently a member of the Board of Directors for the New Jersey Chapter. Furthermore, Mrs. Voorhees is an active member of the National Community Associations Institute, now serving on the Business Partners Council and as the Treasurer of the Board of Directors for the National Research Foundation.

For over 19 years, she has been an integral part of Kipcon Inc. and the community association industry. Having dedicated countless hours to build, sustain and improve the CAI-NJ, Lynn Voorhees has undoubtedly earned the 2010 Jerome M. Fein Distinguished Service Award.
